

disrupts food systems, contributes to hunger

and malnutrition and undermines progress in health and education.

Since 1990 more than

3 million people have died in armed conflict.

Almost all of the deaths

directly attributable to conflict

have happened in developing countries.

Violent conflict disrupts whole societies

and can roll back human development

gains built up over generations.

Inequality matters.

This initiative was made possible by the generous support of more than 16,000 AIGA members in 54 chapters and more than 150 student groups nationwide; the Human Development Report Office for the United Nations Development Programme; and designers everywhere who believe in the power of design for the public good.
