

Bringing the real threat

into focus

Every civilian death linked to conflict is a violation of human rights. But the risk is heavily weighted against people living in the poorest countries.

Since 1990 more than 3 million people have died in armed conflict. Almost all of the deaths directly attributable to conflict have happened in developing countries.

Inequality matters.

This initiative was made possible by the generous support of more than 16,000 AIGA members in 54 chapters and more than 150 student groups nationwide; the Human Development Report Office for the United Nations Development Programme; and designers everywhere who believe in the power of design for the public good.
